Bystander Killed.

Frank Lawrence is dead and George Sheeley, Bob Booker and Noah Drake, last named two negroes, are wounded, as the result of a fight in Sheeley's saloon on Vine street in Lexington Saturday night. The trouble grew out of a difficulty in the after-noon. Booker slashed Drake across the face. Drake began firing at Booker, who in the meantime had cut off the top of his left ear and slashed him twice in the head. When Booker had enptied his revolver it was found that Frank Lawrence, a farmer, residing near South Elkhorn, and who had been taking a drink at the bar, was shot just below the heart; Sheeley, the proprietor, had a wound through his left hand, and Booker had a bullet in his right foot and a wound in his scalp.

Killing at Parks Hill.

Arnold Capps, aged about 30 years, Smoky Hollow, across the railroad from Parks 'Hill, Sunday afternoon by Jefferson Manning, of Bethel, according to the dying statement of Capps. A crap game was in progress at Smoky Hollow when Manning fired into the crowd, hitting Capps in the body, one bullet taking effect between the seventh and eighth ribs.

Friends of Capps picked the wounded man up at once and started to his home with him, but he was overcome at Moorefield, and died at that place. The authorities at Flemingsburg tele phoned after the shooting that they were holding a man answering the description of Manning for identifica-

Rain Ruining Crops.

As the result of a very wet summer ome of the crops which should now be in their prime and ready to ripen are in reality begining to mould and this years' tobaacco crop which promised to be the greatest raised in years in the bluegrass is needing sunshine During the past week the crop has deteriorated in value to a large extent and unless dry weather prevails from now until the crop is cut, it will be nardly up to the crops of 1906 and 1907 which were hardly average.

Lightning Strikes a Church.

During a hard storm of rain, thunder and lightning at Lexington Sunday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock, lightning struck the roof of the Second Presbyterian church. The fire department sent a force to the church, fearing that it had been set on fire, but found that beyond a hole in the roof, little damage had been done.

The flagstaff on top of the eighth story of the McClelland building in that city, was also struck by lightning, the bolt splitting the pole and hurling the big bail on top of it into the street. The light and telephone wires in the building were put out of commission, but no serious damage done. The fall of rain was heavy for about thirty minutes.

A special from Frankfort in Sunday's Enquirer says of marriage of prominent society girl of that city:
"No wedding bells September 11 for Robert Baldwin, aged 25 of New York, for Miss Julia Louise South, of the Forks of Elkhorn was married today to Eugene F. Castles, of this city. The ceremony was performed in Covington, Ky., where Castles and his bride elect went Sunday morning. Miss South is one of Kentucky's noted beauties and a member of one of Central Kentucky's most prominent families. She is a first cousin to former Congressman South Trimble, of Dr. John South, sonin-law of United States Senator W. O. Bradley and of Mrs. E. E. Hume, wife of Mayor Hume, of Cincinati. "She has been engaged to Baldwin, son of A. Stewart Baldwin of Chicago, for a number of years. Baldwin is the senior chief engineer of the Illinois Central Railroad system, and the young man to whom Mrs. Castles was engaged is at the head of a large advertising agency of New York. The wedding was set for September 11. "Mrs. Castles it is said, went into the store of R. H. McClure, where Castles is manager, to order her wedding dress, and while there met him. It is the same old story—love at first sight-and the courtship culminated in thier marriage Saturday. Castles is from New York."
